

Meet CLSA's New Executive Director

Janice Isberg

Janice was born, raised, and educated in rural Alberta near Vermilion. A farmer's daughter, she believes that good things come to those that work hard and serve others. Janice trained as a teacher and worked in Fort St. John, BC for 20 years in public education. She then moved into the not-for-profit sector before taking on the role as Executive Director for the CLSA.

She lives on an acreage with her husband, Blaine, and her two dogs, Sidney and Kevin. In her off time, she enjoys kayaking, quilting, reading, camping, and keeping up with her five grandchildren. Janice is looking forward to serving the members of the Central Lions Senior Association and adding value to the community where she can.
